

Merry Christmas

Friday, 24 December 2021 22:05 -

Its late on Christmas Eve. I only remembered about Warped because it is Christmas Eve and it popped into my mind that I used to leave Christmas messages here late on Christmas Eve. So here I am, wishing you a happy Christmas.

What's going on with me? A lot since I last wrote here - a house renovation and extension, a 2 year old daughter who is growing like a mushroom and forgets nothing; who looks like her daddy and acts up as badly. Work. Work. Work. All consuming, gruelling yet addictive, destructive yet constructive. I have been broken down and rebuilt many times. I've become a better boss than I could have ever imagined yet I am reminded daily of my shortcomings... and been able to see past them.

Merry Christmas to you. I hope life is treating you well and I hope you are happy.